Reaching our packaging goal

No more plastic and styrofoam!

'Two years ago, we made a commitment to our customers — retailers and consumers — that 100% of new Willow Tree production would be in recyclable or compostable packaging by year-end 2024.

We've spent this time experimenting with materials in a rapidly developing field and have made significant changes that I hope you're seeing, and have more planned for 2025.

We've converted to recyclable tissue wrapped around figures instead of plastic baggies. Product is protected from breakage with paper pulp or cardboard inserts. The overall presentation is cleaner and prettier!

Moving forward, we will continue to search out new materials that are cost-effective, protective and better for our world.'

Susan Lordi

NOTE: You may still receive product packaged in older materials until all back inventory is depleted and replaced with new production.

Thanks for your patience!

Thank you for 25 years!

We so appreciate you — you who have been displaying and selling Willow Tree in your stores for many years. We attribute our longevity to your enthusiasm for the brand! Your interest has allowed our team to create new expressions, try new formats, push boundaries and limitations.

Over these 25 years, I've grown and changed as a sculptor. Thank you for greeting each introduction with eagerness, and for letting us know what you think — good or bad! Here are some pieces that exemplify how our Willow Tree style has evolved through the years...

My first piece

This is the first figure I carved in fall of 1999 that defined the look and feel of Willow Tree, showing the rough cuts and facets of my knife, with an appearance of carved wood. My earliest pieces featured a unique shape of thin airy wire, suggesting wings.

Adding colour

I started introducing more colour by way of flowers.

Carving in the round

I have always used live models, mostly family and friends. The little nuances in body positioning and shifts in weight help remind us of the ones we love because we express ourselves 360 degrees. Carving in the round means that figures can be displayed in any direction.

Though my sculpting style, materials and techniques have expanded, I've always tried to stay true to my original philosophy — to tap into the expressive power of the human gesture.

I hope that each Willow Tree figure retains an openness of interpretation that is personal to the giver and the receiver.

Susan

Carving on the surface

I love surface design and textiles! I carve relief patterns onto figures to add texture and movement... Symbols of everyday objects can be metaphors of life experiences.

Adding gold

I use deep gradated blues and sparkly gold as a jewel-like reference of historical objects of art and architecture...

I embellish the surface of the figures with gold dots — symbolising light, or energy, hope, inner strength...

Surface experiments

I experiment with smoother, more refined surfaces; allowing the luminosity of the resin to show through with only a suggestion of colour.

I rub paint into etched patterning on figures. Especially with darker skin tones, this creates an exciting contrast.

Here for You

Know that you are loved

'With a gesture of empathy and caring, this figure can represent the supportive love of friends, coworkers or family. Sometimes it's helpful and healing to know that others are 'there for you', available to listen, with steady reassurance.

'More important than words, a quiet presence is sometimes the most comforting support to have. For when you want to tell someone that they don't have to explain... that you hear them, see them, and are holding them in your heart.'

Serenity

Calm the soul, free the spirit

'The gesture of this piece is that of calm reflection. She is relaxed, engaged in thought, yet aware. Maybe enjoying the quiet.'

'With so much going on in the world around us that is unsure, I hope this little piece can be a reminder to take a moment to let our thoughts wander, and carve out time for peace and tranquility.'

My sister, my friend

Walk with me. And along the way, we'll share...everything

'You never laugh harder than when you're laughing with your sisters... or very close dear friends. You share the same history; the inside jokes that no one else would understand in the same way.'

'A sister knows your faults, somehow puts up with them, and loves you in spite of them.'

This piece is about the rich and sustaining, comfortable constancy of lifelong friends.'

Now available with darker skin tone and hair colour; a gift to celebrate friendships among women of colour, and the support that exists within these relationships.

'I hope my granddaughters develop the closeness that I've always enjoyed with my two sisters. There's nothing like the love of a sister. It grows out of a shared history of funny, stormy, trying, joyful experiences...creating the foundation on which every strong relationship is built.'

Love / Friendship

A puppy brings joy, exuberance and a bit of chaos into the household at first, then mellows over time to become a companion, a playmate, a confidante; always happy to see us, never tiring of our presence.

As a metaphor for friendship, a dog represents the trust and comfort of a good friend, and how this relationship grows in value through the years.

'When carving this figure, I was influenced by the postures of classical sculptures, where the line of the shoulders is in opposition to the hips, or 'contrapposto'. I wanted the gesture to involve her whole body — 360 degrees. So any way that the viewer turns the figure, there is movement and life and expression.'

'I look to things that bring joy, especially in difficult times.'
